TENT & TARP REPAIR KIT

Hgk101 tent & tarp repair kit

Banners, decking, roofs, tarps, tents, pool liners and pond liners are made out of a thermoplastic material and can be heat welded and repaired with heat guns without the need for glues or sewing. These materials will weld to themselves.

Today you see more billboards, signs, awnings, store fronts, party tents, flat roofs, sports domes and architecture fabrics made from a reinforced thermoplastic coated material.

New thermoplastic liners and membranes are coming on the market every year. These materials can be fabricated and repaired onto themselves simply by heating the two layers of the materials together and then pressing them together with a roller to create the weld. Typically, the weld joint is stronger than the material by itself.

Malcom Company has created a heat gun kit to repair these materials which include an overlap welding nozzle, roller and a powerful electronically temperature controlled hot air tool with a digital read out of temperature.
